PLANNING FOR THE CLOSING EXERCISES

Invitations Are Issued by the New Mexico College of Agriculture.

Las Cruces, N. M., May 11.—The invitations for the 18th annual commencement of the New Mexico College of Agriculture and Mechanical Arts have been issued, the date to be May 14 to May 18. The graduating class for this year comprises Elsie Hays Hines, Bertha Anna Mayer, John Edmund Powers, Paul Wauchope Mayer, Joseph Wheeler Rigney, Rupert Lyonel Stewart, Sewell Egbert Merrill, Henry Cresswell McCowan, William Ephraim Campbell, Percy Cudworth Fitzgerald and George Robinson Quesenberry.

On Friday night of this week the student body will present at Hadley hall a student play under the title of the "Ex-Collegian," which will be under the direction of Prof. R. M. Wilcox. On Saturday at 1 o'clock in the afternoon, a luncheon will be given to the members of the senior class at the home of president W. E. Garrison, and at 8 o'clock Saturday evening will occur the exercises of the music department of the college.

The commencement exercises proper will start at 11 o'clock Sunday morning, May 14, with the baccalaureate sermon at Hadley hall, and at half past seven o'clock Sunday evening there will be a joint meeting of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. On Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock will occur the graduation exercises of the preparatory department.

The program for Wednesday, May 17, is as follows: 10 o'clock, commencement exercises; 1 o'clock, president's luncheon to the board of regents; 3 o'clock, alumni association business meeting; 8:30 senior promenade and commencement ball, at Hadley hall.

ARRESTED IN EL PASO FOR CHECK DEAL IN LAS CRUCES

Las Cruces, N. M., May 11.—Jose Jesus Mendoza from Organ is charged with passing a number of checks on the business men of the city. The checks were signed in the name of Martin and Goldbaum, a firm which has a number of mining properties in the Organ mountain district. One check for $52 was cashed by L. E. Bahule at his saloon, and two for $52 and $60, respectively, were cashed by A. Jacoby at his general merchandise store. As soon as it was discovered that the checks were forged, the officials were notified and found that Mendoza had gone to El Paso. Deputy sheriff Eugene Moreno, accompanied by William Biscarra, left on the afternoon train for El Paso and found there that Mendoza had been arrested, placing him under arrest after he had told them that he had arrived in El Paso, and where he resided. On searching him they secured $72 and a number of articles of wearing apparel which he had purchased in El Paso. They returned with him to Las Cruces yesterday morning and placed him in jail to await a preliminary examination. He has sent a money order from the El Paso post-office to his father in Arizona. It is claimed, and steps were taken to stop the payment on this. If payment is stopped, the loss to the Las Cruces merchants will not exceed $20.

LEASBURG FARMER GETS HIS FOOT CUT IN MOWER

Las Cruces, N. M., May 11.—While cutting alfalfa on his ranch north of Leasburg on Tuesday afternoon, Ramon Aguilar had his right foot badly cut by the mower knife. He had stepped in front of the machine to clear the knife from weeds and bunched up grass when the team started, the knife catching Aguilar just above the instep and cutting a gash over three inches deep, exposing the bone. The team stopped almost at once, and this was the only reason that the man did not lose his entire foot. He was brought to this city yesterday afternoon where the wound was dressed, and it is thought that there will be no serious consequences, unless blood poisoning sets in on account of the rusty condition of the mower knife. This is the first accident of the kind reported this year. A number of narrow escapes have been had during the past week on Leasburg. John Henry, having his foot caught in the hopper Monday, but fortunately extricating it before the bones were broken.

HERALD WAR NEWS IS EAGERLY SOUGHT IN CRUCES

Las Cruces, N. M., May 11.—The people of Las Cruces have anxiously awaited The Herald bulletins concerning the war in Juarez, as it has been found that the dispatches from The Herald were authentic and conservative. Many wildcat rumors have been floating around this city concerning the battle across the line, but most of these have been proved untrue. The people of this town are now depending almost entirely upon The Herald for their information concerning the progress of the fight. Over 125 extra Herald were sold in Las Cruces on each of Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday evenings. On Tuesday evening and Wednesday morning Associated Press dispatches were received by the Rio Grande Republic, but this was the only other authentic news received.

Sells at 40 cents per pound, but as a pound will make from 15 to 20 more cups of pure full strength coffee than ordinary, or even the same coffee if ground the old way, it is economical. It takes more than a pound of coffee berries to make a pound of Barrington Hall, as several ounces of chaff and dust are removed by a special process. The chaff contains the injurious element and its removal leaves only the best part of the coffee, which you can drink and enjoy without fear of ill effects.

WRECKAGE ATTENDS BOMBARDMENT OF JUAREZ

ters and had then been dragged inside by companions. This may have been Col. Tamborel, as he had been carried into the parlor of his rooms and laid in the bed which was dragged from an adjoining room.

In the Room of Death.

The room in which the little hero was lying was not disturbed, except for the presence of the bed, which had been dragged from an adjoining room when the sleep began. A small candle had been lighted, and placed near the bed in a crude effort to observe the religious rites even in wartime. The colonel's uniform had been removed and he wore only an old, cotton sweater that had once been white, but was blood soaked and soiled with grime. A bullet had pierced the forehead of the commander, leaving a diagonal red scar. Blood had oozed through the sweater over the colonel's heart, and his left hand was punctured with a bullet. Before leaving him, his men had tied a piece of cotton cloth under their colonel's chin, and his hands had been crossed over his breast. A large framed picture of president Diaz hung on the west wall of the room at an angle which made the old warrior of Chapultepec look directly into the face of his fighting colonel, who had given his life in the execution of the president's orders.

Other Rooms In Disorder.

The office of the commander across the hall had been upset, the papers and books strewn about the floor and the chairs overturned, as if someone had been searching for important papers while in a great hurry. On the wall of the entrance hallway there was a military order tacked to the wall and signed by Col. Tamborel only the day before the attack started.

At the Garrison.

At the garrison to the south of town the disorder was even greater than at Navarro's or Tamborel's headquarters.

103 EL PASO STREET

EL PASO SCHOOL FOR GIRLS

Del. 2929. A Boarding and Day School. 1111-1115 Terrace Street, Sunset Heights.

For more than a block down the street the soldiers had stripped their uniforms from them as they retreated toward the barracks, and the street resembled a second-hand clothing shop. The white flag, which had been run up to signify surrender, was hanging limply at less than half mast and the ground in front of the building was strewn with uniforms, caps, belts and clothing. A guard of insurgents surrounded the building and allowed no one to enter except by order of Col. Garibaldi. The uniforms outside the garrison were piled up and burned during the afternoon Wednesday.

The square entrance to the garrison was crowded with insurgents, minus the floor was covered almost a foot deep with the discarded saber bayonets, belts, cartridge boxes and belts of the federal soldiers. These were being distributed to the rebels, who were wearing three, four and even five of the cartridge belts with the Mauser clips attached.

Navarro and His Staff Prisoners.

Gen. Navarro and his staff were being held prisoners Wednesday afternoon in the office of the garrison commander just off the entrance patio to the right. Gen. Navarro was sitting on a pile of bedding, wearing his silver gray fatigue uniform, minus the shoulder straps, and with a blue field cap. Col. Bautista, his chief of staff, was sitting beside his commander, as dapper as if preparing for a review, in his khaki suit and puttees. The others of the staff were crowded into the small room, squatting on the floor or sitting on the wall.

Volunteers Under Guard.

In the soldiers' quarters of the garrison were confined the volunteers, who outgrew the federals. They were under a heavy guard of insurgents and were mingling with the federal troops, who were wearing only their underclothing. These volunteers were marched from the garrison to the front of the city hall Wednesday afternoon by a guard of 100 insurgents in command of Gen. Orozco, who walked at the head of the triple-lined column formed by the single file of prisoners and the double line of guards flanking them.

The prisoners wore a dejected look, as if they expected to meet the extreme fate that could be meted out to them, and they walked as if they were almost exhausted by their long vigil. One old man had lost his hat and walked with his hand over his gray head as if to keep the hot sun from his brain.

These prisoners were taken to the rooms in the city hall facing the small plaza and were held there under a heavy guard. The Juarez police and rurales were also confined in these rooms and were taken out and made to dig trenches, in which to bury the dead.

To El Pasoans who were permitted to visit Juarez Wednesday the degradation of the once high and mighty Juarez police was a source of no little interest. These men had ruled the roost on the Mexican side of the river, had arrested anyone they pleased without any better reason than that they had to make a show of keeping busy. Wednesday they had lost their chesty appearance and slunk back in the corners of the temporary prison as if they were afraid to take a deep breath for fear of being shot.

Weak Nerves

Weak nerves mean nervousness, nervous headaches, debility. They call for good food, fresh air, and a nerve tonic. Let your doctor select the medicine. Ayer's Sarsaparilla, free from alcohol.

J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.

I WOULD like to meet all men in El Paso who are in the market for a suit of clothes, or anything else in men's wear. Men who are willing to be shown, men whom I can convince that I sell the finest merchandise in El Paso. Just as good and up to date and bigger varieties to select from than you could find in the average first class men's wear store, and for less money than you have been paying for cheaper goods.

I don't want the smart guy who knows all about clothes (that is the one who thinks he does), how they should be made, and how much cheaper they are sold in Chicago or New York, and the expert he is on clothes by reason that he has been wearing clothes all his life. I want to sell to men who appreciate only the finest and most up to date, at prices to suit their tastes and pocketbooks.

We sell suits from $10.00 to $50.00
Hats, $1.00 to $8.00.
Shirts, 50c to $5.00.
Underwear, 25c to $10.
Neckwear, 25c to $5.00.
Hose, 10c to $2.00.
Pajamas & Night Clothes, 50c to $10.00.

No matter what you want in men's wear, we have it, and can surely please you.
